The Masculine Christianity Con- ference.

The Masculine Christianity Conference that convened in this city Friday evening in the Christian church, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, adjourned Sunday night after one of the largest and most inspiring sessions ever held by Laymen in the State of Kentucky.

There were enrolled 238 delegates, those that made daily visits from our neighboring cities not being included in this list. The Conference was held under the management and direction of State Secretary Dix, of the Young Men's Christian Association, and well did he manage the affairs of the Conference.

The session was opened Friday night
by an address on "Masculine Christianity," by President E. Y. Mullins, D.
D., of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, of Louisville. His address was a thoughtful study of the significance and possibilities of the present day movements among men.
Dr. Mullins at once inspired the large assembly to thoughtful and earnest consideration of this great work undertaken by laymen.

Saturday, the conference opened at 9
a. m. Addresses were made from time to time during the day by leading ministers of the country and prominent laymen of the churches. The audiences of the sessions throughout the Conference taxed the capacity of this large and beautiful church.

Inspiring and instructive addresses were made Saturday by Major S. M.
Greene, of Louisville; Mr. E. C. Carter, of New York; Rev. Edward Mack,
D. D. of Lane Theological Seminary,
Cincinnati; Rev. R. H. Crossfield, D.
D., President of Transylvania University, Louisville; Prof. E. A. Fox, of Louisville; Mr. H. W. Arnold, of New York City.

Dr. R. A. Torrey, of Chicago, one of the most widely known evangelists and Bible students in the world, addressed
two of the largest audiences ever seen in Paris. He spoke at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon and at 8 o'clock in the evening. His simplicity and magnetism is the success of this great man in his work of evangelizing the world.
His arguments are forcible and leaves no room for the sinners to controvert.

On Sunday, the local pulpits were filled by delegates to the conference.
One of the principal features of the whole conference was the address of Prof. J. C. Acheson, President of Caldwell College, of Danville, to men only,
at the opera house at 3 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, his subject being "Fetters of Brass."

The opera house was packed from pit to dome, the crowd being conservatively estimated at 1,500 men. The lecture was preceded by a musical program led by Prof. E. S. Fogg's excellent orchestra, of the Covington Y. M. C. A., and by the quartette from the Morehead Association. This magnificent audience of men gave this gifted and earnest layman the very closest attention.

Prof. Acheson's address was eloquent and forcible showing conclusively that science and religion joined hands in the effort to free men of sin and keep them physically and morally pure. His address will long be remembered by the host of men that heard it. There were five men that made profession of religion and accepted Christ after the meeting had been dismissed.

The conference closed Sunday night.
The large and commodious auditorium and Sunday-school room at the Christian church again being crowded. The closing addresses were made by Mr.
W. B. Stubbs, of Nashville, an attorney, on "The Men of Our Land and the Men of Other Lands," Prof. J. C.
Acheson, of Danville, closing the Conference with an address on "The Contribution of the Young Men's Christian Association to Masculine Christianity," which caused much enthusiasm throughout the large audience. The delegates then formed a double circle around the room and after joining hands sang, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds Us."

The delegates were loud in their praise of the Paris people for the handsome manner in which they were received and entertained. Most of them left on the early trains yesterday morning.

Much of the success of the Conference was due to Y. M. C. A. Secretary
P. C. Dix, of Louisville, and Mr. W.
O. Hinton, chairman of the local committee.

Chairman Prewitt Calls Meeting.

State Chairman Henry R. Prewitt has issued a call for a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee to meet at the Seelbach in Louisville on Wednesday, April 28, at noon.

The purpose of the meeting is to consider and determine, if desired, a number of contests in the State, including certain contests filed by Democrats claiming to be committeemen from Kenton county; the controversy over the chairmanship in Breckinridge county, and such other matters as may be the subject of consideration at said meeting.

On March 24, Mr. Prewitt and Judge Allie W. Young will leave the State for a month's absence in California, but before going Mr. Prewitt thought it best to issue a call for the meeting above stated, in order that these matters affecting the party's welfare might be settled.

"That's Economy."

Democratic Leadership.

[Editorial from the Commoner.]

The Brooklyn Eagle recently contained an interview with Senator Patrick McCarren, of Brooklyn, in which he says:

"I think that the national situation is one that affords opportunity to the Democratic party to make an issue on which it might successfully appeal to the people. We have not been on the right side of any public issue since the Civil War. For instance, we were on the wrong side of the Civil War issue, because of the fact that so many of the Democratic states were opposed to the union. Then, intervening between the period of the war and the time of Tilden, we were on the wrong side of the tariff issue. Everybody knows that the election of Tilden was a protest against the methods of the Republican party at that time, and a declaration in favor of a change in the methods of government.

"Since that time we have been on the wrong side of every issue, with the exception of one campaign in which Cleveland was elected. His election was a repetition of the Tilden period. It was an effort on the part of the people to wrest the government from the hands of the Republicans, because of the belief that their methods were high handed and detrimental to the interests of the country.

"Then the Bryan period followed, beginning with the declaration in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver in an arbitrary ration. It is unnecessary to elaborate on recent happenings for the reason that every Democrat today, young and old, realizes the disastrous consequences that have followed the attitude of our party on all the questions that presidential contests are decided on. The patriotism of our country was arrayed against us because of our attitude on questions following the Spanish war. Our anti-expansion stand, lined up young American voters against us. While I have never voted anything but a Democratic ticket in my life, and have worked for no other than the candidates for Democracy, I did so in the belief and with the feeling in many campaigns that I was pursuing a forlorn hope, because of the realization of the exact that the position of our party would not be endorsed by a majority of voters.

"It is evident, to my mind, that we must put ourselves on that side of national issues that will be endorsed by the voters, and the sooner we do it the better. The result of the last election, it seems to me, is so pointed that there can be no controverting the statement that there can be no controverting the statement that the American people will not stand for radical theories in the affairs of our government. To my mind, Mr. Taft was elected because he was suspected of being conservative."

Before commenting on this interview, The Commoner took occasion to make inquiry and ascertain that Senator McCarren had been correctly quoted, and it is brought to the attention of the readers of The Commoner because it illustrates the embarrassments under which the Democratic party has labored. In a war no great hope of victory could be entertained if the armies were officered by men who were opposed to the principles for which the army was fighting. For instance, a man who believed in monarchy would not be a good person to lead an army fighting to establish popular government, and so a man who believes that the Democratic party has been on the wrong side of every issue since the civil war is not a good man to lead the Democratic party. Assuming that Senator McCarren honestly did the best he could in the late campaign, it must be apparent to every reasonable man that he could not arouse enthusiasm among his followers when he confesses that "in many campaigns" he worked with the "feeling" that he was "pursuing a forlorn hope."

The Democratic party is entitled to leaders who are in sympathy with the voters of the party. Someone has defined a leader as one who is going in the same direction as the people, BUT A LITTLE BIT AHEAD, and surely one can not wisely, courageously or successfully lead who is going in an opposite direction from those whom he leads. The men who fight and die in the trenches are entitled to leaders whose hearts are in the fight and who believe that the success of the party will be good for the country.

The Democratic party has been very much handicapped for twelve years, first, by a lack of newspapers in the Eastern States. But few of the large dailies that have supported the ticket have almost without exception repudiated the platform either during the campaign or immediately afterwards. In like manner many of the men who have been at the head of the organization in the East have promptly repudiated the platform as soon as the campaign was over, and have, between campaigns, lent their influence to those who have condemned the Democratic position on public questions. Most of them have not gone as far as Senator McCarren, and yet their influence has been cast against the party rather than for it. In the face of these continual assaults upon the policy of the party, it is astonishing that the party has polled a large vote as it has. It is evidence of the incorruptibility of the Democratic masses that they continue to fight for Democratic principles in spite of the desertion of the party's policies by those who control the organization.

A permanent Democratic club ought to be organized in every county of the United States—a club committed unqualifiedly not merely to the name but to the policies of the party. Such a club is needed more in the East than in the West. Its members ought to devote themselves to the propagation of Democratic doctrine; they ought to establish in every county a local newspaper that will preach Democratic doctrine all the time, and in every primary contest they ought to labor to put the Democratic organization in the hands of those who will make the fight with earnestness and with a confidence in final victory. The Democratic party has been a "house divided against itself," and this has been and is its greatest weakness. It would not strengthen the party of the reform element to cease to fight, for without the reform element the Democratic party would soon be a thing of the past. Will the reform element take up the fight and secure for the next campaign not only a Democratic ticket and Democratic candidates, but an organization which believes in the policies of the party and which will fight for those policies because it believes in them?

The national organization made a splendid fight last year, but in some cases it had to work through local organizations that were lukewarm and through some that were unfriendly to the general purpose of the party. This ought not to be the case again, and it must not be the case if the party is going to make a successful fight.

Minority Plan.

The Democrats in the House will oppose the establishment of a duty on coffee and the provision of the new tariff bill for the re-establishment of the stamp tax on checks, bonds and stocks. If the republicans do not provide for an inheritance tax in the new bill the Democrats declare they will fight to have an amendment made to the bill which would assess a tax on legacies, and, it is said, would in this may embarrass the Republicans on account of the recommendations of Presidents Roosevelt and Taft.

The minority members, especially those on the Ways and Means Committee, are preparing for the new tariff bill and will not be informed of the changes provided for until it is introduced, it is not known on what schedule the main fight will be made.

Representative Underwood, of Alabama, who is a minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, declared today that if the duties imposed by the tariff were determined on a revenue basis, there would be no need for taxing the breakfast table or imposing a stamp tax. He said an inheritance tax offers the best means for making up the deficit in the Treasury and that if the new bill contained a provision for such a tax, neither the duty on coffee nor on beer need be increased.

BLUE GRASS LEAGUE NOTES.

The decision of the Winchester Club
in deciding not to play Sunday games has caused quite a mess in the Bluegrass Baseball League, and at a meeting of directors of the league at Lexington Friday it was suggested that if Winchester stuck to this determination
it should be dropped from the league and Mt. Sterling or Nicholasville substituted.

The Sunday games are the most remunerative of the season, and the league depends on them to keep the clubs on a paying basis. It was decided that to allow Winchester to withdraw from all games played on Sunday would be fatal to the league's existence. B. R. Jouett, who represented Winchester at the meeting Friday, however, promised to at once call a meeting of the Winchester club stockholders and to use their influence to secure a reconsideration of the club's decision not to play on Sunday.

The directors decided to give the Winchester club until March 20 to make a decision, and if they do conclude to not play on Sunday the establishment of a team in either Mt. Sterling or Nicholasville will likely be the result and Winchester cut out. The league members who attended the meeting were M. C. Kellogg, of Richmond; B. R. Jouett and Jefferson Stewart, of Winchester; J. E. Ballman, of Shelbyville, and W. J. Kennedy, of Frankfort. J. W. Bacon, of Paris, attended the afternoon session.

Aggravating.

ing: "As the poet says," and quoting

—Miss Nora Wadell, whose serious illness has been noticed in several issues of this paper, died Friday at 10 p. m., of Bright's disease. She had been an invalid for several months, though not wholly confined to her bed but for a few weeks. She was one of our most useful and cultured women, a greater part of her life having been spent in the school room. Her circle of acquaintances was large, many boys and girls having gone from her care in the school room to buckle on the armor of life in this and other States. She united with the Methodist church early in life and was a devout Christian character, attentive to all of its duties and demands, occupying a prominent place in the choir for many years. She was daughter of the late Judge Hiram Wadell and was one of nine children. Her entire life spent in Millersburg. She is survived by four brothers and four sisters—Messrs. George Wadell, of Atlanta, Ga.; Ed. Wadell, of Galveston, Texas; W. D. Wadell and Judge T. P. Wadell, of this place; Mesdames C. N. Johnson, T. Prather, E. T. Beeding and Miss Eugenia Wadell, all of Millersburg. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Wadell home, conducted by her pastor,

Change Comes to Curt Jett.

Curt Jett, who is serving a life term in the Frankfort penitentiary for the murder of James B. Maroon, and who said he had been converted to Christianity, has made an exemplary prisoner and is said to be one of the best Biblical scholars in the penitentiary. Jett has written a story of his conversion, in which he asks Gov. Willson to pardon him.

Governor's Wife Badly Injured.

Gov. Willson and Mrs. Willson and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Lyman, of New York, narrowly escaped death when the horses attached to Gov. Willson's carriage ran away late Saturday afternoon at Frankfort. As a result of the accident Mrs. Willson was left unconscious, two of her front teeth were broken and her left wrist fractured; Gov. Willson was bruised on many parts of his body. Mr. Lyman's face was cut and contused. Mrs. Lyman was the only member of the party not injured.

Caught Fox Instead of Negro.

Capt. V. G. Millikin, of Lexington, who was called to Nicholasville with his bloodhounds Friday night to trail a negro who frightened the inmates of the Jessamine Female Institute, did not catch the negro on account of the rain and the number of persons who had passed over the trail, but on his arrival home Saturday morning about 4 o'clock in an automobile, ran over and caught a red fox which was crossing the road. Joseph Hertz, the chauffeur, was bowling along through the darkness on the turnpike near Providence church, about seven miles from Lexington, when he felt a jar of the machine and thought he had run over a dog. He stopped, and, getting out was surprised to find that he had run over and broken the back of a big red fox. He knocked the animal in the head and brought the body to Lexington, where its pelt was taken off and placed on exhibition.

Bourbon Circuit Court.

Friday was a busy day in the Bourbon Circuit Court from the minute Judge Butler Southgate convened court at 9 o'clock to the adjournment hour in the afternoon. After number of demurrers were passed on by the Judge the criminal docket was called.

John Henry Trigg, a negro, under indictment for stealing chickens, confessed his guilty, and, it appearing that he had previously been confined in the penitentiary for the same offense, he was given a sentence of five years.

William Raymond, charged with housebreaking, was not represented by an attorney, and Judge Southgate designated Attorneys Fisher, Cline, Stitt and Williams to sit in the case. Both sides answering ready, the testimony was heard and the jury brought in a verdict of one year in the penitentiary. Raymond's attorneys immediately filed a motion for a new trial which was granted by Judge Southgate because of the insufficiency of the evidence.

In the case of the Fiscal Court on appeal, the county recovered the sum of $77.50 in the action of Walter Clark who was allowed a claim for that amount for the hire of mules. In the petition of County Attorney T. E. Moore, Jr., it was set up that the appellee was a joint partner with Fletcher Mann, a member of the court, who, though the account was made out in the name of Clark, only shared in the profits.

In the case of Si Robinson who was under indictment for retaining a pistol not his own, the judgment of the court, upon agreement of attorneys, was that the defendant return the weapon and pay the court costs aggregating $15.

Herbert Glover pleaded guilty and was given a fine of $100 and 30 days in jail for carrying concealed weapons and the case of the Commonwealth vs. same, a felony case was dismissed.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. the International Harvester Company, which has been on the docket for more than two years was also dismissed.

Judge Southgate on Saturday morning called the old equity docket, a number of cases being disposed of and others set for trial.

The grand jury made its final report and was discharged. The report stated that they had examined the conditions at the jail and County Infirmary and recommended improvements at both jail and county house. A copy of this part of the report was ordered mailed to the Bourbon Fiscal Court. Fewer indictments were returned than in years. Not an indictment was returned for violation of the liquor law or for gambling.

In the case of Mattie Casey vs. Henry Casey a rule was issued against Henry Casey, returnable in fifteen days, for him to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of Court by disobeying the orders of the Court.

The demurrer in the cases of James M. O'Brien, D. C. Parrish and W. H. Webb against J. H. Haggard was taken up. The plaintiffs being represented by E. M. Dickson and the defendant by McMillan & Talbott and Judge Denison. After arguments by the Court overruled the demurrer and Messrs. Talbott and Dundon given until tomorrow morning to file their answer.

These are the cases that each of the plaintiffs, O'Brien, Parrish and Webb ask for $10,000 damages against the defendant J. H. Haggard, for libel. The cases will probably be tried at this term of Court.

All of yesterday was practically taken up in Court by the trial of the case of the Lexington Herald Company vs. W. E. Butler. The plaintiff being represented by Attorneys R. C. Talbott and J. J. Williams, and the defendant by E. M. Dickson. It is an appealed case from the Bourbon County Court.

The jury returned a verdict for the defendant Butler in the sum of $27 and costs. The cost will amount to about $100.

Governor's Attitude Changed.

How Gov. Willson's attitude toward the School for the deaf was changed by one of the graduates of that school is being told now that the question of putting the school under department of education is up for discussion. Gov. Willson had been of the opinion that the school at Danville was an eleemosynary institution and should be classed as such. One of the former students there, whose home is in Lexington, went to see the Governor. He was talking through an interpreter, being deaf and dumb, when the Governor interrupted him and told him it was no use to go further into the subject.

"Let me explain and you listen for a minute," said the deaf man. "I was born deaf. My brother had his hearing. That was the only difference between us. My brother was educated at the expense of the State in the public schools of Lexington. It cost him nothing to get his education. I was educated at the school for the Deaf, also at the State's expense. It cost me nothing. Are you prepared to say that I was a charity student and that he was not? Did I receive a charity education any more than my brother, merely because I was handicapped in the race of life and because I had not all of my senses?"

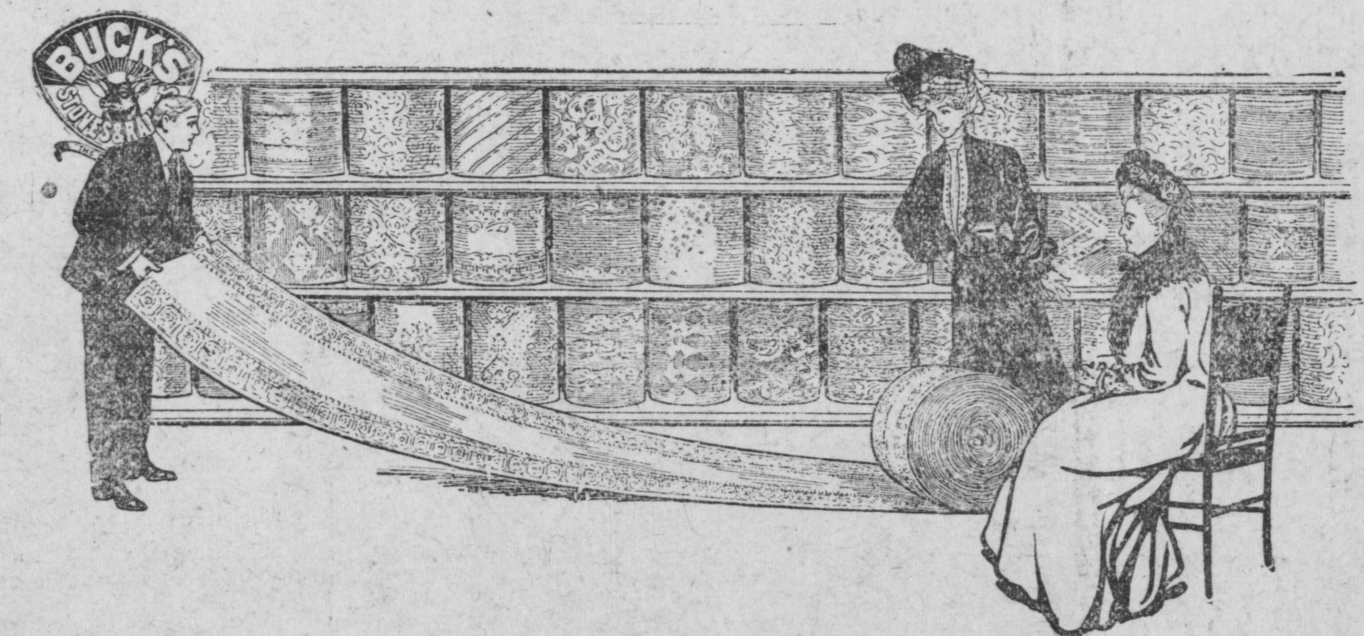

Gov. Willson had not thought of it in that way and he said he was frank to confess that he was wrong and that the school at Danville should be called an educational institution and classed as such. It is probable that the management of the school will be changed slightly—that is, it will be placed under the control of the Department of Education to a limited extent.

Will Probated.

The will of the late Miss Bessie Clark was probated before Judge Denis Dundon yesterday afternoon. The document was written in 1901, and is in the handwriting of the testatrix, is brief and to the point. She leaves all of her property to her brother, John T. Clark, and her sister, Miss Sallie Clark, to be equally divided between them. Her estate amounts to a one-third interest in the Clark farm on the Hume & Bedford pike, recently sold to Mr. John Toohy.

Fire Scare.

On Friday evening, between 8 and 9 o'clock, considerable excitement was caused by an alarm of fire. It was caused by the dense smoke over and around A. J. Winters' jewelry store, opposite the court house. The fire department was on hand promptly and a crowd of excited people gathered, all trying to locate the fire. It was finally decided that the cause of the smoke was a chimney burning out in the building occupied by Mr. King Redmon, as a stove and tin store, the old Perry stand.

Compliment to Officials.

The final report of the Grand Jury on Saturday, showed that not a single indictment was returned for violation of the Sunday law, liquor laws or gambling laws. This is, we believe, the fourth Grand Jury in succession in Bourbon county that has failed to return indictments for the breaking of either of the above laws mentioned. This we take to be a great compliment to Mayor James M. O'Brien, and speaks volumes of the efficiency in which he has had the Sunday law enforced in our midst, also of County Attorney T. E. Moore, Jr., for doing what he stated he would do in regard to gambling and blind tigers when he first entered upon his duties as County Attorney. Both of these officials have certainly "made good" and kept the promises made to the people four years ago. There is no better reason why in Kentucky than in Bourbon county people should appreciate the efforts of the above named officials who have done so much to make the county as they are today, in regard to law and order referred to.

Special Session of Congress Begins.

Precisely at noon yesterday the extraordinary session of the Sixty-First Congress, called by the President for the purpose of enacting tariff legislation, began. As is always the case with the convening of a new Congress, great crowds were attracted to the Capitol, but only a small percentage of these were able to gain admission to either chamber.

The Senate began a continuous body, its organization was complete although interest in the days proceedings centered on the new Vice President, Mr. Sherman, and the swearing in of Senator Stephens, of Wisconsin.

At the other end of the Capitol a different situation was presented. The House with its seventy-seven new members had to organize and this consumed considerable time. While this was being done, the clerk, Alexander McDowell, acted as presiding officer. It is necessary first of all to swear in the entire membership and this was done by States.

Letter From Walter L. Church.

Richmond, Ky., March 16, 1909.
Editor News,
Paris, Ky.

Will you allow me a few words of personal explanation in your paper regarding the John Cunningham farm transaction?

Invited by its owner, I went there Feb. 1, and was entertained by them for a month. Meanwhile I bought the farm, in good faith, on the statement of its owners that there would be no question about the title after payment of the recorded liens, all of which I agreed to assume. In addition to giving them a good price for the property, I had a special contract with them to let them remain on the farm as their home for life, and they were also to share only in the profits of the farm itself, but receive a good royalty on all oil, gas, zinc, lead and other minerals taken from the land; my intentions being to systematically develop the mineral as well as the agricultural resources of the farm.

But some question was raised about the competency of Mr. John Cunningham to convey. I promptly told Mrs. Laura E. Francis, who for sometime had had a contract of sale from the owner, drawn for her by Judge John C. Chenault, and I purchased of her, and told the owners, John Cunningham and wife, who had deeded direct to me, that I had not bargained for a law suit, and requested them to cancel our contract, which they did, and deeded the land, with the consent of all parties, direct to Mrs. Laura E. Francis, and took back all my consideration, and the matter was ended so far as I had anything to say. I came down here to look up some zinc and lead deposits I had heard of, and I told Judge John C. Chenault the facts about the Cunningham matter, as he is the attorney for the owners. He approved of what I had done and invited me to make his office my temporary business quarters, while I am examining the zinc and lead deposits of this section, with a view to the development and purchase of such as may be available and desirable.

Though a member of the Kentucky Bar admitted at Newport, Ky., where I then lived with my brother and partner, Samuel S. Church, who is a well known attorney of Cincinnati, Ohio, I have been chiefly engaged in mining for some years, all over the west, from Old Mexico to Alaska. I spent two years in the lead and zinc regions of Joplin and Arkansas, and a company of which I was part manager, built a large zinc mill near Joplin on a mine we were developing.

During the month of February I visited the principal zinc and lead deposits near Paris, including those of Col. Cassius M. Clay and Mr. Richard Marsh. What I saw there, and what I have seen since I came to Richmond confirm the good opinion I have long entertained of the valuable mineral deposits in Kentucky, deposits which would be considered well worth development if locate in Joplin, Leadville, Colorado, or other lead and zinc centers in which I have personally operated.

May I add that I was born in Lexington, Ky., right where my father, S. S. Church, was born, he being a minister in the Christian Church, and then preaching at Lexington as a special protégé of Elder D. Pat Henderson. I have friends in Cincinnati, Paris, and here, who have known me since I was a school boy.

My only reason for stating these personalities is the fact that some newspapers, whose editors did not know me, have given impressions regarding me in connection with the heretofore unstated facts pertaining to my purchase and reconveyance of the Cunningham farm that have done me injustice. I expect soon to return to Paris, and will thank you in person if you do me the courtesy to publish this statement.

Very Truly Yours,
WALTER L. CHURCH.

City Would Buy Coal Mine.

The city of Vienna is now trying to secure control of mines in Moravia. The reasons given for the purchase are the high price of coal and the difficulty of securing a steady supply for the municipal gas and electric plants.

History of Tobacco.

In an important tobacco bulletin issued by the Kentucky Experimental Station, among many instructive and valuable articles concerning tobacco, appears the following brief history of the weed: "Tobacco," says the bulletin, "belongs to the order of plants commonly known as the nightshade family. Its generic name, 'Nicotina,' was given it in honor of Jean Nicot, French Ambassador to Portugal in 1560. The aborigines of America grew tobacco long before the advent of the white man. The French explorers, Marquette and LaSalle, found it in cultivation and use by the Indians along the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers and their tributaries as early as 1669 to 1673. In 1750, nearly one hundred years later, Captain Christopher Gist, an agent for the Ohio Company, came down the Ohio River and found tobacco being grown by a tribe of Indians at Shansetown, the present site of Portsmouth, O. During the same time, tobacco as being grown by the Shawanese at the present site of Indian Fields, Ky., Clark county. It was grown at Boonesboro, and later tobacco became, as history relates, a medium of exchange, serving the purpose of money. White Burley was first grown in Brown county, Ohio, and then transplanted in Kentucky, where it thrives as in no other State."

Instead of getting the $15,000 asked for in three suits which were filed against the Western Union Telegraph Company, Magie Kitts, Janie Gillispie and C. B. Daniel Wednesday in the Federal Court at Frankfort recovered a total of 58 cents. The suits were filed by the three for damages to their feelings by reason of the alleged failure to deliver a telegram containing news of the death of their brother. Judgment for $5,000 was asked in each case. Judge Cochran dismissed two of the cases and directed judgment for 58 cents in Daniel's case, that being the cost of the telegram.

In its appeal the company alleged that there was no penalty, and this was sustained by Judge Shaw.

Prof. H. K. Taylor Resigns.

The Educational Board of the Kentucky Wesleyan College, of Winchester, which was in session at Lexington Friday announced that the resignation of Dr. H. K. Taylor, president of the college, had been offered and accepted to take effect at the end of the scholastic year. The reason for Prof. Taylor's action was not given. He went to Winchester two years ago from Louisville, where he was principal of the Louisville Training School for Boys. He is widely known in educational circles, and he has done much for Wesleyan. The board also announced that students would be allowed to take part in athletics, but would only allow any of its teams to play two games away from home.

Politics Tabooed.

President Taft Wednesday instructed Attorney General Wickersham to choose his assistants without consideration of political influence or political services rendered. This policy was decided on by the President after a conference with Secretaries Knox and Wickersham.

One cause of friction at the Department of Justice which Mr. Wickersham will attempt to smooth over is the appointments of attorneys by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Under the policy handed down by President Taft it is desired to have the commission appoint attorneys who on the completion of their investigations, will turn the results over to the Department of Justice instead of having attorneys try to carry their own cases to the courts.

EBZEMA CURABLE? PROVEN

Attorney of Moline, Ill., Convinced by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.

Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer, F. C. Entriaken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of Wintergreen compound mixed with thymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in thirty days after thirty-two years of suffering.

"For thirty-two years," writes Attorney Entriaken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and head. I could run a hairbrush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-ray—all without result. Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

"I can only say again 'cure discovered.' I am now starting all eczema sufferers on the right track."

Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch.

An Interesting Church Case.

Every Episcopalian in the land is interested in the fight going on between the Trinity Corporation of the State of New York and the Episcopalians of every other church in New York.

The Trinity church corporation is worth millions and millions of dollars. The sale of Trinity church proper, right in the heart of the city would bring to the corporation millions. Besides that property, the corporation owns millions of dollars of other realty.

This property came in a grant to the established church in America from Queen Anne in sixteen hundred some time. It has been held since that time by the Trinity corporation. It is now contended by other Episcopals of New York or every other denomination that every member of every other church has a right to participate in the management of the Trinity corporation property because their contention is that the property was given to the church at large in America and not to the Trinity Corporation for its own use.

This contention is being fought most vigorously by the Trinity corporation. So bitter has become the quarrel, because of the almost untold wealth of the Trinity corporation, that a bill has been introduced in the New York Legislature permitting every Episcopalian in New York City to vote with the Trinity corporation. It is a wonderful fight, and interests Episcopals everywhere throughout the land.

Clarke Tandy's Will.

In his will, Clarke Tandy, the brilliant young scholar, of Lexington, who committed suicide at Lawrenceburg, N. J., several months ago, remembered Sam Booles, formerly of Hopkinsville, for having saved him from drowning when a boy and bequeathed him $100 "as a small token of gratitude." The remainder of his property, including an insurance policy and a residence in Hopkinsville, was left by the testator to Miss Kate Clarke, of Lexington, who raised him. Miss Clarke is well-known in this city.

Taft's Cabinet Trust Tinctured.

Declaring the membership to be strongly trust tinctured, W. J. Bryan in the Chamber of Friday comments as follows:

"The personnel of President Taft's Cabinet. Does the President's Cabinet strike you as a reform Cabinet?"

Secretary of State Knox, ex-attorney of the Steel Trust; after conference with Mr. Frick, he, as Attorney General, advised the killing of the only anti-trust bill passed by the House in recent years. Is he likely to encourage the President to attack the trusts?"

"Secretary of War Dickinson, attorney for the Illinois Central railroad an ex-Democrat, drawn away from his party by his corporate connections."

"Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, ex-Democrat left the party when it separated from Wall street."

"Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, attorney for Standard Oil Trust."

"Attorney General Wickersham, not known for any activity in connection with the regulation of railroads or the prosecution of monopolies of a national character."

"When has a Chief Executive selected a more conservative Cabinet? There are no reformers in it. The progressive element of the Republican party is as completely ignored as was the progressive element of the Democratic party by Mr. Cleveland during his second administration. Will the result be the same?"

New Railroad.

A new railroad to tap the rich coal and timber fields of the Kentucky mountains is to be constructed at once, according to articles of incorporation which were filed Friday morning with the Railroad Commission and with the Secretary of State. The new company is called the Cumberland and Northern railroad, and the line will extend from Arden, in Knox county, to Beattyville, where it will connect with the Louisville and Atlantic. The principal stockholders live in Knoxville, but C. B. Milner, formerly of Louisville, and for a short time superintendent of the Louisville Southern railway, is one of the incorporators. The capital stock is placed at $100,000, with the privilege of increasing this to $3,000,000.

THE GREEN THAT WALKED

By JOHN L. CONSIDINE

(Copyright, by Shortstory Pub. Co.)

"Captain," said the man on Post No. 13, "I'd like to be relieved. A couple of weeks' rest might put me right again."

"What's the matter? Sick?"

"Not exactly that, captain. It's my eyes; I've been seeing things."

The captain of the guard eyed the man sharply.

"Been drinking?"

"No, sir. It's not that—no pink rats nor blue monkeys, nor anything of that sort. The fact is, and here he lowered his voice to the level of a confidential whisper, although the nearest man was the guard on Post No. 12, three-score yards away, "I've been seeing the grass walk."

"What's that?" snapped the captain.

"It's a fact, sir. I didn't pay so much attention to it at first, but now that it's happened three times, I'm beginning to think that my eyes are going back on me, or else that I'm getting hallucinations."

The captain looked at Guard No. 13 in dismay. Hitherto he had regarded this man as one of his sanest and steadiest subordinates.

"Tell me about it," he commanded.

"There's nothing to it, much, except that every afternoon a patch of grass out there in the alfalfa field begins to move slowly toward the south. At first I thought it was the bay breeze, rolling through the grass, but then, I recollected, it's wave was toward the bay. Besides, it seemed to me that this grass just picked itself up in a patch and moved along, independent of the grass around."

"Does this movement always start from the same point?"

"No; each day it begins a little further south."

"Hum! A little closer to the south—a little closer to the bay, that is. At any regular time?"

"Why, I hadn't thought of that. Yes; let me see. Yes, I believe it was at the same time each afternoon. From half-past two to three, say."

The captain glanced at his watch. "It's 2:35 now," he said. "Do you see anything?"

The guard peered long and carefully to the southward.

"Yes, sir," he responded. "It's on me again—the grass moves."

"Where?" inquired the captain.

The guard pointed to a spot near where the alfalfa field met the fence-line. Sure enough, as it seemed to the captain, a patch of green, probably six feet in length and three in width, was making speedy progress in the direction of the fence.

"Take aim," shot from the captain's lips. "Can you hit it?"

The guard raised his rifle, but with shaking hands.

"Let me have it," cried the other, with a scornful gesture.

Steeling his nerves, the guard fired. The grass was still.

The captain ran down the stairs, and toward it. Regardless of possible reprisal, the guard followed. Arrived at the spot, the officer stooped to lift, and examine, an ingenious contrivance. It consisted of two layers of burlap sacking, the upper one bearded with grass. The space between had been filled with loam, and from this, planted in wheat, the green blades had forced their way through the loosely-guarded interstices of the upper piece of cloth.

While the captain surveyed with admiration undisguised this novel garb of living green, the form of its designer, a man in stripes with shaven head, lay at his feet.

And beside the body, stricken with vain regret, knelt Guard No. 13.

"The first I ever killed," he muttered dumbly. "May God forgive me!"

New Disease in Austria.

A Vienna correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette tells of a new infectious disease among children in lower Austria, to which the doctors have given the name of polyomyelitis. Translated into plain language this means children's spinal paralysis. The first symptom is a high fever, followed by a severe headache, sickness and vomiting, and sometimes also accompanied by convulsions or cramp. The next stage is paralysis, either of the whole body or individual limbs. This paralysis occasionally takes a transverse direction, the right arm and left leg being affected. The disease does not appear to be fatal. Frequently a complete recovery is effected, but occasionally the limbs remain in a weak condition.

Bruce's Mother.

The inspector was examining Standard I. and all the class had been specially told beforehand by their master: "Don't answer unless you are almost certain your answer is correct."

History was the subject.

"Now, tell me," said the inspector, "who was the mother of our great Scottish hero, Robert Bruce?"

He pointed to the top boy, then round the class. There was no answer. Then at last the heart of the teacher of that class leaped with joy. The boy who was standing at the very foot had held up his hand.

"Well, my boy," said the inspector encouragingly, "who was she?"

"Please, sir, Mrs. Bruce."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Marine Insurance.

Marine insurance is the oldest kind of modern insurance. Its principles were first employed in the fourteenth century by the merchants of Barcelona, in Spain, when that city was the capital of the kingdom of Catalonia and when its hardy mariners were second to none in the world. About the same time, and also at Barcelona, the famous code of maritime laws known as the "consulado del mar" was promulgated, which is the foundation of the present shipping laws of every country.

What the Eyes Show.

Gray eyes are said to denote intellect and well-balanced character. Brown eyes, with a touch of hazel show courage, intelligence and affection. Black eyes show intelligence and courage. Light-blue eyes often show deceit and cruelty. Violet eyes are loving and ardent, but impetuous and do not show a high order of intellect. Hazel eyes with arched eyebrows show fickle temper. Velvety brown eyes show intense feeling and are not often to be trusted.

Singers Need Big Room.

Many excellent voices are ruined, according to a communication which Dr. Weiss has made to the French Academie du Medecine, by practicing in too small a room. A public singer must throw every intonation of his voice a distance of 30 or 40 yards, he says, but a student practicing in a small room is only able to throw it a yard or two, and the consequence is that the voice, instead of expanding, becomes telescoped.

Exploding Diamonds.

A curious fact about diamonds is that it is not uncommon for the crystals to explode as soon as they are brought up from the mine. Sometimes they have burst in the pockets, or the warm hands of miners, due to the effect of increased temperature. Large stones are more likely to do this than small ones. Valuable stones have been destroyed in this way. To safeguard them some dealers place large diamonds in raw potatoes for safe transport from South Africa.

Rooster as Scarecrow.

Fred Small, on his farm in Swanville, Me., has a successful method of scaring crows from his cornfield, having a bantam rooster in a wire cage, with nest attached, and, as everybody knows, the cockerel is an early riser and starts crowing at once, which keeps the crows from interfering with the corn.

No Police in Heaven.

Small Isabel's particular friend, the policeman on the beat, contracted pneumonia and died. Isabel was greatly grieved until her mother convinced her that he had gone to heaven. Even then she was not quite reconciled. "If heaven is such a good place," remarked the little skeptic, "I don't see what God wants policemen there for!"

Lay Low.

"Let us get out in the sunshine," says a Georgia poet, "but be careful to keep far from the farmers who would waylay and plow us. I believe in 'sticking to the soil' in literature, but not in down-right reality—at the plowhandles, for instance, and as the man with the hoe in his hand. There is no poetry in the hungry braying of a Georgia mule, or the 'ge-haw' of the plowman!"—Atlanta Constitution.

As the Playwright Sees It.

"If there was any justice about it, which there isn't," said the playwright, "the name of the playwright would be on the billboards three feet tall, the name of the star next, the name of the manager last. As it is, the manager comes first, the star next, the name of the man who prints the billboard next and the playwright last in point of size."

Most Glorious Task.

Fine English Church Bells.

In England for ages past church bells have been connected with everything sacred in life. Here the bells are loved for their old associations. Who has not heard of the famous "Bow church chimes" of Cheapside, London? They date from 1761 and are a fine peal of 12 bells in C, their total weight being nearly eleven tons. The whole bell tower is swayed by their ringing, and their rich tones vibrate throughout the entire city, as it is said those in the lofty bell tower of St. Ivan's do in Moscow.
